

December 21 – Marno Fagala

“Butterflies in the Storms”

Read: Psalm 98:4

“Shout to the Lord all the earth, break out in praise and sing for joy!”

Psalm 98 is one of the Royal Psalms we celebrate God as the eternal King over us his chosen people.

We recently flew to New Mexico to celebrate our Great Granddaughters Birthdays.

When we returned to Tampa our luggage and Ed's walker were lost .. also his wallet with his license, id's and credit cards gone. The next few days were hectic. Replacing license, military Id etc. we had to spend a night in Tampa to be in line early for his military ID. We were headed home the next day and heard a loud noise. We had blown a tire!! It's 90+ degrees, cars flying by us and I was really stressed – All of a sudden, a beautiful yellow butterfly flew across my windshield – I said Butterfly bring me some water and was immediately calmed. A knock on the window – Triple A – he had a bottle of water for us.

Thank you for your salvation and always taking care of us. God sends butterflies in the storms.

We can be joyful and sing his praises daily